

Decreasing Dependence on Food for Pleasure

There are many reasons we love to eat. Not only is it necessary, it can bring a sense of being connected when you dine with others, and it also can taste great. The pleasurable aspects of food are often intertwined and can touch on our needs for play and self-fulfillment. But are you enjoying food or depending on it? In this session, we will learn how mindfulness affects weight loss and how it can increase our enjoyment of food.

In Decreasing Dependence on Food for Pleasure, you will begin to:

- Understand how mindfulness relates to weight loss
- Learn how important play and self-fulfillment are in life
- Learn how mindfulness can help us enjoy food without depending on it
