

Every year the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) sets maximum contribution limits for health savings accounts (HSAs). Failure to observe these limits may result in tax penalties as outlined in IRS Publication 969. PayFlex is required to report HSA contribution information to the IRS.

The chart below outlines the contributions amounts provided by the State, employee annual maximum contribution to avoid tax penalties, and 2018 IRS annual maximum contribution limit.

Eligibility to Contribute

Your eligibility to contribute to an HSA for each month is generally determined by whether you have High Deductible Health Plan (HDHP) coverage on the first day of the month. If you are enrolled in Medicare or Medicaid, you are not eligible for an HSA Plan. If you had HSA when you enrolled in Medicare or Medicaid you can still use the funds. You just cannot contribute to the account. Medicare members are not eligible to contribute to a HSA account effective the month of Medicare entitlement (effective date of Medicare Parts A and/or B).

Contribution Options

All contributions made to the Health Savings Account are subject the annual IRS maximum amount as indicated in the chart above. Using the chart above you may calculate the amount of contributions you can elect using the following methods:

- Pre-tax Payroll deductions up to 26 pay periods annually
- Checks, or money orders
- Electronic funds transfer from personal bank account
- Rollover from IRA (one-time transfer from IRA up to permitted annual HSA contribution limit)
- Trustee to Trustee transfer from Archer MSA or other HSA

Additional Contribution

For 2019, if you are an eligible individual who is age 55 or older, your contribution limit may be increased by $1,000.

Reduction of Contribution Limit

You must reduce the amount that can be contributed (including any additional contribution) to your HSA by the amount of any contribution made to your Archer MSA for the year. A special rule applies to married people if each spouse has family coverage under separate HDHPs.

When You Can Contribute

We report calendar year contributions you made to your HSA from your paycheck. You can make direct contributions to your HSA designated for 2019 until April 15, 2020, contact Payflex to find out how.
